FRIDAY, AUGUST 19, 1853.

Sworn to no Master, of no Sect am I. MR. WENTWORTH'S SPEECH. MR. WENTWORTH'S SPEECH.
OF course we refer to the speech delivered by the honorable and learned gentleman on Tuesday evening, upon moving the second reading of the New Constitution Bill. It is generally admitted to have been one of the best speeches he ever delivered. Yet it was not wholly free from Mr. WENTWORTH'S characteristic faults. Here and there his invectives against individuals. there his invectives against individuals, and even against individuals, and even against classes, were intemperate and coarse. He had been provoked, it is true, by attacks upon himself still more intemperate and coarse; but it was beneath his own dignity, the dignity of the place in which he stood, and the dignity of the great question he was discussing, thus to repay vulgarity with vulgarity. Bating these ebullitions of temper, the speech was a masterpiece gumentation, its felicitous array of facts and authorities, were excelled only by the noble principles of fidelity to the distinguished and adorned.
Mr. WENTWORTH's first business to expose a remarkable instance of the gullibility of the populace. The peti-tion which had just been presented to the House, and which bore the signatures of 2630 persons, contained a posi-tive assertion that the Council had been elected "without reference to the proposed change of Constitution" — an assertion which the honorable and learned gentleman characterised as a charge than which one more erroneous, more unjust, and more false was never made. The facts are so clear that we wonder how any man could have had the temerity to set them at defiance, and especially how any man could have deliberately written down, and called upon his fellow-citizens to corroborate by their votes and their signatures, a statement which the facts completely falsify. The Act of Parliament giving us our present Constitution, and empowering the Legislature to be established under its provisions to frame a Constitution after our own hearts, was passed on the 5th August, 1850. This Act was transmitted to the Governor by Earl GREY, with a despatch, written on the 30th of the same month, pointing out, amongst other things, the various particulars in which our new Legislature would be at liberty to exercise their own discretion in modifying the Constitution so enacted by Parliament. In the following year the old Legislative Council was dissolved, had thus cast this important duty, was elected, and commenced its first session on the 14th October, 1851. It is quite clear, then, that the asser-tion of the petitioners is untrue. The Council was not elected without reference, reference the most pointed and universally understood, to changes in our Constitution. It so happened, we grant, that at the time of the last general election the attention of the colonists was so absorbed in the great gold discovery that they took very little interest in political matters, and what interest they did take was chiefly on the Transportation questica. But still every elector who knew anything about the subject knew well that in giving his vote on that occasion he was delegating the power of framing a Constitution. this power the new Council lost no time in exercising, taking the precaution, however, not to exercise it rashly. It was in their first session that they adopted the famous Declaration and Remonstrance, as a preliminary to those ulterior proceedings by which the Consti-tution was to be settled. In their second be day previous.

In consenting to postpone the further consideration of this measure, after the second reading, until November next, reading should be taken only to affirm the principle that we are to have two Houses, leaving it still an open question as to whether the Upper House shall be elected or nominated, Mr. WENTWORTH triumphantly put down that part of the opposition which imputed to him a vish to hurry on the Bill with indecent haste. He has given ample time for the colonists to consider the question in all its bearings, and to make known what their deliberate wishes and opinions are.

But whatever those wishes and ppinions may be, no candid, no right. inded man can hesitate to admit that Mr. WENTWORTH has in this great business acted a part not less upright and patriotic, than able, eloquent, and

BOUNDARIES OF THE COLONY.

Mr. RICHARDSON presented a petition from certain inhibitants of the Moreton Bay district, protesting against the 51st clause of the new Constitution Bill, which fixes the northern boundary of the colony of New South Wales at the 26th degree of scath latitude. Patition received.

TARY, the Governor-General's Message, No. 29, respecting the salary of the Colonial Treasurer was read.

Mr. JAMES MACARTHUR: In rising to bring under the notice of the House what he considered to be the claim of his honorable friend the Colonial Treasurer for an increase of salary, he must claim the indulgence of the House, on account of his labouring under in disposition, trusting that whatever might be his deficiencies, they would not affect the favourable decision of the House. He presumed honorable members had already made themselves acquainted with the substance of his Excellency's message, and the accompanying documents; but he would nevertheless briefly state the facts. Mr. Riddell was appointed to his present office in 1830. Subsequently, ho wever, in the repart of the Parliamentary commission on colonial establishments, the salary of this office was recommended to be £1250, the sum now saked for; and the ground on which that recommendation was made was that the Colonial Treasurer was also to be collector of the internal revenue. So that, in fact, if the appointment had taken place with that increased salary, still a great saving, to the extent of £400 a year, was gained by the sholition of the office of internal revenue collector. It must be obvious that the duties of his honorable friend's office had greatly increased since his appointment; and those duties were of so serious and responsible an ature that none but a gentleman of great tact and undoubted integrity and charaster could properly fulfil them. When it was borne in mind how faithfully those duties had been discharged by Mr. Riddell, he felt confilent the House would lend a favourable ear to the recommendation of his Excellency, Moreover, when it is considered that this gentleman had to enter into a bond for £5000, it was obvious that his position was one very different from that of any other head of a department. There were not many gentlemen who would be able to enter into such a bond, which he (Mr. Macarthur) quite concurred in the propri

QUARANTINE.

On the motion of the COLONIAL SECRETARY, the Governor-General's message No.
31 with the Quarantine Bill, was read.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY explained that the object of the Bill was to amend the Act 3 Wm. IV., No. 1, by which masters of vessels were compelled, under a penalty of £103, to answer certain questions put to them by the health officer. It had been found that this penalty was insufficient, and the object of this Bill was to increase the pecuniary penalty and to impose a periol of imprisonment on masters of vessels, and also on surgeons and dispensers, for refusing to answer, or answering falsely, any questions touching the health of their vessel, or of the countries from which they came.

The Bill was read a first time, and the second reading ordered for Thursday next.

BAGGAGE BILL.

The COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS moved the second reading of this bill. He did not the second reading of this bill. He did not QUARANTINE.

The COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS moved the second reading of this bill. He did not know that any valid objection could be made to this measure, which was intended to prevent smuggling which had recently taken place. He had indeed heard that it would be objected that in Regland restrictions were being removed rather than increased; but he contended that in this colony no obnoxious obstructions had been, nor was it intended they should be, offered to the landing of bond fide luggage.

Petition received.

SYDMEY HAMLET'S POLICE BILL.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY postponed for a week longer the second reading of the colonial Treasure for an increase of the wharf at Ericket to be the claim of his honorable friend the Colonial Treasure for an increase of the wharf at Ericket to be the claim of his honorable friend the Colonial Treasure for an increase of the service of the House what he considered to be the claim of his honorable friend the Colonial Treasure for an increase of the service of the House what he considered to be the claim of his honorable friend the Colonial Treasure for an increase of the service of the House what he considered to be the claim of his honorable friend the Colonial Treasure for an increase of the colonial the colonial ging, and this would be easily represeed by the improved strangements of the Water Police which were in contemplation.

The OOLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS confessed he had not been aware that the wharf at Erskine-street was in so bad a condition. He was not very anxious about the measure; but still he considers it was a good and a necessary one. Considerable smuggling had taken place by landing luggage from vessels from California in the stream and some seisures had been made of tobacco; but in one case it had been returned to the owner on account of his good character, and only a small fine had been inflicted. On another occasion the Custom House officers had learned, but too late, that no less than four hundred weight of tobacco had been amuggled on shore and got away. This measure had not originated with the Government, but was founded on the representation of persons interested, and there was no intention of vexatious anniyance to passengers. With regard to the jerking of spirits, he would only say that when a deputation from the Chamber of Commerce waited upon him on the subject he convinced them they were wrong. The fact was merchants expected the Customs to give them early information, in order that they might sell their goods to advantage; but he feally did not think this was a reasourable expéctation.

The Bill was then read a second time.

The House went into Committee.

The only clause in the Bill was amended in some particulars, especially so as to include other wharves, which may be appointed by Government.

The CHAIRMAN reported the Bill with mendments; and the adoption of the report was fixed for Wednesdsy next. GUNPOWDER EXPORTATION BILL. This Bill was read a second time, and having sessed through Committee, the report was dopted, and the third reading fixed for this

HEBREW CONGREGATION.

HEBREW CONGREGATION.

Mr. WENTWORTH, in moving that the petition from the Hebrew Congregation, presented by him on the 16th instant, be printed, stated his intention of founding upon it a motion for a grant of money, in furtherance of the views of the petitioners.

The petition was ordered to be printed, IMMIGRATION.

Mr. WENTWORTH did not consider it necessary on his part, to enforce the recolutions he had placed upon the paper by any lengthened observations. The necessity of providing a continuous stream of labour into this colony, for providing for its industrial demands, had long been admitted, and for some years past due means had been afforded for this perpose. But if it were requisite that the State should supply a certain amount of labour formerly, doubly necessary was it now.

make it. Mr. Wentwoeth takes his and on the principle that men are to be represented not as unite but as groups in other words, that the true subjects of religibility representation are the great interests into which communities are distributed. Certainly this is the British principle, which, as Mr. Wentwoeth and it is integrity.

In all that Mr. Wentwoeth said in all its integrity.

In all that Mr. Wentwoeth said in the Governor-General's message No. 30, with this Bill, be read. The message having in the Governor-General's message No. 30, with this Bill, be read. The message having the favour of an Upper House composed of members nominated by the Crown, we entirely concur; and in what he urged in favour of the scheme of hereditary honours we should concur likewise. Could we think either that titular dignity than the concurrence of the scheme of hereditary honours we should concur likewise. Could we think either that titular dignity than the county of the scheme of hereditary honours we should concur likewise. Could we think either that titular dignity as an excessary to the usefulness of that House, or that the taste of the colonisis at large was prepared for scan has system. We have elsewhere said enough to a the local point of the scan has been because the scan has bee principle of that Bill was, that the money advanced by the Government for the transmission of immigrants to this colony should be paid back by the immigrants themselves at certain periods, out of their own earnings. In this Bill, however, while it was made imperative on the male heads of families and male and female adults to prepay to the country the amount of their passage out, under certain circumstances and with certain restrictions, the fathers of families had an advantage given to them, by which their wives and children might be introduced into the colony without this condition. Although this Bill had been passed and sent home, and its principles generally approved of by the Imperial Government, they had not yet had any opportunity of seeing what its working would be. But the emigration papers laid upon the table during the present session showed that the Bill had been favou bly considered by the British ministry, and that at all events the principle of the measure would be attempted to be carried out. He admitted in the petular position in which the change which the Bill of last session proposed in the system of immigration. The object of the bill of last session was to make the system of immigration self-supporting, or nearly so, while heretofore it had been carried out—he thought very fortunately, however, as circumstances had turned out—he thought very fortunately, however, as circumstances had turned out—he thought very fortunately, however, as circumstances they would be supplied with that continuous supply of immigration which the best interest of the colony demanded. Whatever might be the fate of the measure they had sent home, whether it would be found beneficial, or whether, rather, it might be found desirable to revert to the old system, one proposition was, he thought, self evident,—that for the public money. Now, from the papers laid on the table of the House, he found that if the English Government had continued to send out immigrants at the rate of four ships per month, as was agreed on, in some degree to stop emigration to this colony, and therefore it was not unlikely that the funds in the hands of the Immigration Commissioners would stretch over some two or three months more. But at all events that fund must be soon exhausted, and whether the immigrants so urgently required in this colony were to be sent out under one system or the other, a grant of money, if sent hope from the colony, must be raised upon the land revenue. The ordinary revenue was not sufficient to furnish any such grant, and even if it did, there were many reasons which might be urged why it should not be devoted to such a purpose. The only question then which remained for them to inquire into (admitting the necessity of the continuance of immigration) was whether the land revenue was at present able to bear the pressure of any further loan upon it. By a report from the Auditor General, dated 29th June, it was stated that the amount of land and immigration debenture, outstanding was £267,500, and that the total debt to the land revenue was £257,500. The annual charge on this debt amounted to £14,210 5s. 8s. This appeared to be the state of the debenture account of the land fund, while, with regard to the land revenue, he found that, after charges of all sorts, it was estimated that there would be probable balance at the end of the year 1853 of £61,440 16s. 11d. which sum, if no further charges should be made upon this revenue, would be pro tento applicable to the reduction of the debt. The question was then simply reduced to this: ought they or oughgit they not to give the Immigration measure of last session a fair trial, and in the mean time to secure that continuous stream of immigration which was as odesirable? The whole charge on the hundred thousand pounds he proposed to raise by debentures secured on this revenue for immigration purposes would not exceed £4000 annually for interest, and he believed this would be still further reduced, as they would, he had no doubt, be negociable at a premium. It could not, he thought, b ployers of labour themselves; and thus not only did their arrival here not relieve the labour market, but it tended to aggravate the difficulty in which they were placed. The course proposed in the resolutions he should move was in pursuance of the same policy which they had adopted for some years past, and he therefore hoped there would be no opposition to them. He would make one or two verbal alterations in the resolutions, which would then read as follows:—This House having had under consideration the despatches and other documents relating to emigration, and the 3rd instant, and seeing that unless further remittances be made to the Land and Emigration Commissioners the funds now in their hands for the purposes of emigration to this colony will probably be exhausted in the course of the present month, resolves as follows—1. That in order to keep up that continuous stream of emigration which is necessary to supply the large and increasing demand for labour in every branch of colonial industry, this House recommends that immediate measures be taken by the Executive Government for raising, by the sale of debentures secured on the territorial revenue, a further sum of £100,000, to be remitted to the Land and Emigration Commissioners for this purpoae, upon the understanding that not less than four ships a month shall be dispatched to this colony until this fund be exhausted.

2. That this House, in making this recommendation, is not unmindful of the caution given by his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, in his despatch No. 39, of the 9th February, 1853, against the contraction of too large a debt on this branch of the public revenue, even for purposes of this nature; but as the dib in owe existing is inconsiderable in proportion to the annual income which is derived from this source, and appears to be rapidly increasing, and must necessarily continue to increase with the increasing numbers of the population—this House does not consider it would be justified, by the superhead of the population of emigration.

The House then went into Committee on the Bill, and the clauses having been passed without amendment, the Bill was reported, and the third reading directed to stand an order of the day for Thursday next.

The COLONIAL SECREFARY moved the second reading of the Constabulary Powers Bill. He had explained the object of this Bill at its introduction, and it was only necessary now that he should state that it was his intention to introduce a second clause indemnifying constables who had acted beyond their districts in all actions that might be brought against them.

The witness Cheekes, who was at the bar at the time the note was passed, said that the pitsoner at the bar was the person who passed the note; but on cross-examination it appeared that he pointed out another woman to Mr. Coulton on the Monday after, and said he would awaar to her. In this case Mr. Broadburst (who appeared for the prosecution) moved that, as the original information in this case had been either lost or mislaid, a verified copy should now be filed in lieu thereof, and the defendant called upon to plead thereto.

Mr. Purror (with whom was Mr. Faucht) objected to this course. The learned coursel contended that the defendant could not be called upon to plead to a copy of an information; besides, it was impossible to say that here was a certified copy of the original information, which could only be verified by the proper officer who had charge of the original record, and compared the copy therewith. After a brief discussion between counsel on both sides, it was agreed that is fresh information (being a fac simile of the original) should now be filed, and that the defendant be entitled to a copy thereot, and four days to plead or traverse; this course was then adopted, and the trial fixed for Baturday next, the 30th instant, at 9 o'clock, A.M.

After having drunk e of the spirits the prisoner became very some of the spirits the prisoner became very offensive. He said that "Englishmen Irishmen, and Soutemen were no good, and that he was a true born Yankee," Deceased said, "Come out, and I'll show you how an Irishman can serve a Yankee." Both, accord-Irishmeo, and Seotchmen were no good, and that he was a true-born Yankee." Deceased said, "Come out, and I'll show you how an Irishman can serve a Yankee." Both, according to the belif of winess, were in their proper senses. They had one round in the hut, and then wont out an! "ad another round. They both fell, deceased being under the prisoner. Witness assisted to separate them, and they both fell, deceased being under the prisoner gainst the house, and punched him in the face. Prisoner closed on the deceased, and they both fell again, deceased being undermost. Witness heard deceased sith, and exclaim, "Ah, a knife; I'm atabbed!" Prisoner then got up and ran away. Deceased pulled his shirt out, and said, "Oh, my God!" Witness tried to atanch the blood. The slarm was given; and whilst some persons watched the deceased, trying to relieve him, witness, with some constables and others, went in search of the prisoner, whom, after a kny search, they found lying on his side at Campbell's Wharf, with an open knife under him, the blade stained with blood. Prisoner was taken to the Cumberland street Watchhouse. On being examined as to what he meant by both deceased and prisoner being in their senses, this witness explained that although both had been drinking, and not sober, they were not what he called drunk. Bach stood firmly; at first it was a fair stand-up fight, neither falling unless struck by the other. When prisoner was found he appeared to be more drunk than he was at the time of the fight, Witness, however, thought that a great deal of this was sham, the more so, because, when taken to the watch-house, he was very particular in telling the constables to be careful of a bag he had about him, as there were two sovereigns in it. John Johnson, a Norwegian, stated that he was a waterman, and was present at the wharf when prisoner was running away after killing the man. It was clear moonlight, and he distinctly saw a large knife, similar to the one produced in the watch-house, he was exerched at the watch-house, and on the previous eventing robbed him of a purse containing 38 sovereigns. He deposed that between five and six o'clock he went to a house in Paddy Erwin's-lane, of York-street, having in his pocket the purse and money named. The prisoner was there, as well as another woman and a man. He sat on a bed with the other woman, who, after a short time, thrust her hand into his trousers pocket, drew out his purse, and threw it over to the man, who immediately made for the door, he (prosecutor) rose to follow the man, but was detained by the woman until he had made good 14: seespe; having at length extricated himself from the women, he made fruitless search for the man upwards of an hour, when he reported the circumstance to the police, and was accompanied to the house by a constable. Wigley was then the only person there, and she was too far gone in intoxication to make any reply to the charge; he however gave her into custody. The prisoner was then remanded until yesterday, when there appeared with her in the dock Robert Johnson and Elias Stoner. Inspector Singleton deposed that upon M'Auliffe's description he, on Wednesday evening, apprehended the other and prisoners. M'Auliffe identified them as the man and woman to whom he referred in his former deposition. The three were committed for trial at the Quarter Sresions.—On Wednesday Henry Poidevin, seaman of the schooner Hannah, received a sum of money as wages from the owner of the vessel; after deposition, and subsequently with a wann named Hinton, and subsequently with a woman, and they three went together tippling from house to house until midnight, when they retired to a domicile in Durand's Alley; Poidevin lay down and went asleep; he was shortly afterward awoke by the woman, who said Hinton hed robbed him; finding that his money—two film to a film of the woman, who was defined in the direction, and came up to a bakehouse in Gouse-arteet, and looking in a the window as a man getting a light with a march assigned that his was the fellow he wanted, Mr. Singleton wad

GOLD NEAR DUNGOO—There is reason to believe that gold has at length been found near Dungog. A man named Benjamin Perrin, a tenant of Mr. Hooke, was out after his stock amongst the hills in the Port Stephen's direction, some four or five miles from Dungog, when he observed some yellow glittering substance amongst the quartz rock. He broke off some of the quartz, and has brought two or three pieces of it to Maitland, where he had been aummoned on Circuit Court business. We saw a piece of this quarts on Saturday: it undoubtedly contains gold, and is a very good specimen, quite equal to those we have seen from the quartz veins at the Peel. Perrin states that he has previously found gold in small particles, but not having been at any of the digalogs he was not very certain of the real obstacter of the metal. He expressed his intention of immediately returing home, and giving the locality a more thorough examination. The spot will no doubt soon become known, and be so well tried as to determine whether it contains gold in sufficient quantity to be profitable to work. Maitland Mercury.

CENTILEMEN, — A report having person named William Ford, who Ivrely occupied the house known as the Napoleon Inn, situate in Windmill-atreet (but who is now serving a term of of twelve months' imprisonment), to the effect that some years ago the said William Ford had entrusted to his keeping, by a person named Thomas Jackson, the sum of one hundred (£100) pounds, and that he (Ford) fraudulently retained possession of the said money, by accusing Jackson of discharging a loaded musket at him, the said Ford, and thereby getting Jackson transported beyond the colony, whilst he appropriated the money to his (Ford's) own purposes: Now, as such an impression has done Ford's family a serious injury, I beg to lay before you a true statement of the facts as they occurred, and as can be seen by the records of the Criminal Court. Early in the year 1816, the said Jackson came to the house occupied by Ford, and called for something to drink, for which he tendered a five pound note, and the residue of his change in silver; he then left the house, and dan to return again for some two or three days, when he again came to the house and accused Ford of retaining the four notes, but not the silver. Ford told him he had given him his change, but Jackson still affirmed he had not, and went immediately to the Court of Request for a summons. The case was put down for the March sittings of the said court, end was numbered on the list No. 45, Thomas Jackson remediately did not appear, and the case was put down for the March sittings of the said court, end was numbered on the list No. 45, Thomas Jackson of Sunday vensing, and the door of which being closed, he knecked, and saked to see Mr. Ford. Ford went to the door to see who wanted him, Accordingly he went to Ford's house on a Sunda the door, from whence the balls were taken by the police, into whose hands the case then fell. He was secondingly taken into custody, and committed at the police office to take his trial at the Criminal Court, at which trial the Judge deemed it nece sary to inflict the heavy penalty of twenty years' transportation; and although a plea of temporary insanity was put forth by a medical gentleman, who had several times attended 1 im whilst he was labouring under revere attacks of delirium tremens, it proved of no avail, and he received sentence accordingly. I will not trespass on your valuable columns to detail the evidence adduced at the trial; that can be seen in the records of the Criminal Court: but so far from Ford ever having a hundred pounds of Jackson's money, he was not even accused of retaining the cid silver—the four pounds alone was all that was ever demanded or sued for.

I affirm the above to be a true statement of the facts, as they came under my personal knowledge at the time, and by inserting the same you will confer a great favour on Gentlemen,

Your very humble servant,

Resolution

J. L. MONTEFIORE, Esq., Chairman,
Resolution —
Moved by Mr. PIDDINOTON; seconded by John Brown, Esq., Merchant,
That in consequence of the allusions lately made in the Legislative Council to the Cape Constitution, and to the present Secretary for the Colonies, the Despatch of the Duke of Newcastle to the Governor of the Cape, dated 14th March, be adver tised once in the daily papers, and also the principal clauses of the Cape Constitution.

Governor Lieutenant-General the Honble George Catheart, &c., &c., &c., &c., Downing-street, March 14, 1853.

pose of securing as far as possible the attendance of a sufficient portion of the representatives of the more distant parts of the colony, I have not thought it desirable to object to its adoption.

The next, and by far the most important change, occurs in the 8th Section. The substitution of an occupancy with ownership of a house separately or jointly with land, of the annual value of £50, or rental of a house at £10 per annum, for an occupancy of buildings of the value of £25, was adopted as the basis of the franchise. To this was added a provision for conferring the right of voting in respect of salary or wages to a certain amount. To the latter addition Her Majery's Government see no objection, but as regards the general qualification of the Parliamentary suffrage, they have, after much consideration, deamed it right to revert to the basis originally contemplated and approved of in the colony, namely—the occupancy for twelve months prior to registration of a tenement of the value of £25, answering to the term "fixed property, originally adopted in the discussion of the question in Sir Harry Smith's Council.

Her Majesty's Government have come to this conclusion from a conviction that, in conferring upon the colony the boon of a Representative Constitution, it is exceedingly undistrable that the franchise should be so restricted as to leave those of the coloured classes, who in point of intelligence are qualified for the exercise of political power, practically unrepresented: and that any particular portion of the community should be deprived of its share of the management of its local affairs by restricti ms which, so far as the imperfect statistics in our possession authorise the forming a judgment, would, it is to be feared, establish too great a political preponderance in one class of the population. It is the earnest desire of her Majesty's Government have determined also to retain the provision respecting premises successively occupied. They have not seen any sufficient reason for placing the franchise

Her Majrsty's Government have not thought it desirable to re-introduce it, it seemed not unreasonable that the increased qualification for the members themselves as propose d by the majority of your Council, should be adopted. The ineligibility to seats in the Assembly of persons holding offices of profit under Her Majesty, introduced in section 47, is admitted, as it seemed to be generally necessary in consequence of the removal of the same disqualification in respect of voters. There are several other alterations, but none of material consequence, and all of them have been adopted in the Ordinance as it now stands ratified by the Queen in Council.

Queen in Council.

In many of the petitions which from time to time have been sent home by you and your predecessor from the eastern districts, it has been urged that the seat of the Legislature should be removed from Cape Town to Grah-m's Town, or that the colony should be divided into two provinces, with a Legislature to each.

Graham's Town, or that the colony should be to wide di nto two provinces, with a Legislature to each

I have given these propositions an anxious consideration; but, after weighing earefully the advantages and evils of citiver pian, I have not thought it advisable to recommend the introduction of any such provision in the Ordinance. It is already in your power, under the 60th section, to assemble the Parliament at masure may not admit of being entertained with advantages at some future time, I consent the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent with you in thinking that at the present mement the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent times to make the means do not exist for forming two with advantage at some future time, I consent times to make the means do not exist for forming two with advantages to some future time, I consent time to make the means do not exist for forming two with advantages at some future time, I consent time to make the means do not exist for forming two with advantages at some future time, I consent time to make the means do not exist for forming two with advantages at some future time, I consent time to make the means of the forming two with the means of the forming two times the means of the forming two times to the forming the means of the forming the means of the forming times to the forming times to the forming times t internal improvements of the Legislature, but is separation into two distinct bodies, may be effected, if it should be found that the interests of the colony will be thereby promoted.

You will perceive that the Order in Council provides that the Orders shall commence and take effect on the lat July next. This will stiff as mple time for you to prepare the necessary measures, even in the event of your absence from the seat of Government when this despatch reaches the colony. By the 11th section you are required, as soon as may be after the taking effect of the ordinance, to it is not to be made out, and the various successive preparations to be made for electing and assembling the new Parliament.

In addition to the Constitution ordinance to which my remarks have been hitherto confined, the civil list ordinance has been also confirmed by her Majesty in Council, in the form in which it was passed by the Legislative Council.

I me unwilling to express my opinion upon the smount of the appropriation thereby made.

Council.

Is m unwilling to express my opinion upon the amount of the appropriation thereby made, because it has been adopted by her Majesty's Government, in reliance upon the judgment of the Legislative Council; and even if it appears to be more than is absolutely necessary to the proper conduct of the Civil Government, I am in possession of no data by which it could be amended. It has therefore been accepted, subject, like other Ordinances, to future revision.

subject, like other Ordinances, to future revision.

It only remains for me now to assure you that, in transmitting to the colony of the Cape of Good Hope Ordinances which confer one of the most liberal Constitutions enjoyed by any of the British Possessions, Her Majesty's Government have been actuated by an earnest desire to lay the foundation of institutions which may carry the blessings and privileges, as will as the wealth and power, of the British nation into Southern Africa, and, whilst appeasing the jealousies of sometimes confucing races, to promote the security and prosperity, not only of the se of British origin, but of all the Queen's subjects, so that they may combine for the great common of jects, the peace and progress of the colony.

I have the honor to be, Sir,
Your most obedient, humb'e servant,

It is well worthy of remark that the Government has, within the last few days, despatched an expedition to Port Curtis, under an enteran expedition to Port Curtis, under an enter-prising surveyer, for 'be purpose of opening the lands in that distric or location; and, with the fieet of steamers gradually accumulating in the waters of Port Jackson, "being the shadow only as yet of coming events," we may safely calculate upon the advancement of Port Macquarie in connection with the traffic which must shortly be open with the more northern ports.

the other side of the road, is a Government reserve.

This block of land is immediately opposite the stone foundation already erected for the Railway Terminus, and is a first rate site for a public house, which must shortly command an enormous custom, as the neighbourhood is thickly populated, and the opening of the Railroad will give quite a different character and value to lands in this locality.

YASS AND GUNNING BUILDING

YASS AND GUNNING BUILDING ALLOTMENTS.

Day of Sale, PRID a Y. 19th August.*

M. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-atreet, THIS DAY, Priday, 19th August, at 11 o'clock.

ALLOTMENTS IN YASS and GUNNING.

Lot 1.

ALLOTMENTS IN YASS and GUNNING.

being 3 roods 5 perches, with a frontage of 85 feet to Rossi-atreet, by an average depth of 528 feet, near the stores formerly occupied by Mr. Rees Jones, and nearly opposite to the Court House.

It may be merely remarked that the position of this allotment is first-rate, being close to the main street, in the vicinity of the Court House and Post Office, and far above the influence of floods.

Yass being on the high road to the southern auence or noose, Yass being on the high road to the southern diggings, building allotments in good situa-tions must eventually command a high figure. Lot 2.

Lot 2.

ALLOTMENT IN GUNNING.
being a half-acre allotment immediately opposite Grovenor's Hotel and Post Office.
On the site is erected a slab building, let as a store.

Gunning, being about half-way between Goulburn and Yase, will always be the resting place for travellers; and enjoying the same advantages as both those towns with reference to the southern gold diggings, the same inducement offers for the purchase of this as the pre-ment offers for the purchase of this as the preceding lot.

It may be worthy of remark that ledgings are not procurable at Yass in any private houses, in consequence of the accumulation of residents more or less connec'ed with the Bouthern Gold Fields. Fresh diggings have been discovered on Sheep Station, or Cuningham's Creek, only a short distance prom Yass, and lands in the southern townships must shortly acquire a very important value.

SYDNEY PARCELS DELIVERY
To the Gentry, Merchants, Traders, and Public in general of Sydney.

THE want of a sure and ready means of transmitting parcels from one part of the city to another being generally felt, more sepecially by storekeepers and others having much business in the suburbs, it has been determined, in imitation of the London Parcels Delivery Company, to set up light carts, fothe purpose of delivering parcels in any part of the city (except Pyrmons).

As such an arrangement can secarcely fall to be of very general utility, the public is respectfully solicited to lend it their support:
every effort will be made to insure punctuality and despatch, and regulations will be enforced which will prevent the possibility of loss or damage.

Ex reference to regulations appended below.

Jountry Sales of Hormed Stock, Horses, and Sheep, by Auction.

M. G. SMITH (son of the late Mr. In the Smith) calls the especial attention of cowners of all kind of stock, to his proposed plan of selling by auction out of town, within seach of the Sydney buyers, any catle, horses, or sheep that may be certrusted to his hammer. He would searefully impress upon such owners the well known fact, that scriing out stock into classes always results in higher cetures to the seller, and fuller satisfaction to the purchaser; whilst, above all, it gives the mall buyer a chance of fairly competing with the grasping monopolist.

Mr. G. Smith will attend to drafting and selling, either as far from town as Fullager's, or as near as Heann's; and trusts by his attention to the interests of all parties, to gain a full selling, either as far from town as Fullager's, or as near as Heann's; and trusts by his attention to the interests of all parties, to gain a full share of support from Stockholders, Dealers, Butchers, &c.

WATCHES.—Messre. Brush AND EDWARD H. JONES (late of 62, Cornhill, London), Working Jeweller and Watchmaker, No. 1, Huntar-street, and first shop from George-street, begs to offer the following list of prices for clocks, warranted.

being those extensive premises lately occupied by Mr. E. Vickery, George-street, opposite the Market Buildings.

I ANKS AND LLOYD, referring the first state of their friends and the public to the pre-timinary notice a few weeks since, of their intention to commence business in this city as general provision dealers, have now the pleasure of announcing that the extensive alterations and improvements they found it necessary to make in their premises have been effected, and that on Saturday next, the 20th instant, their doors will be found open to receive any extent of patronage with which they may be so forturate as to be favoured; to secure the continuance and extension of which it need hardly be said that the proprietors will spare neither time, trouble, nor expense.

One of the partners having been exvensively engaged in this line of business for upwards of twenty years in London, anh the other partner for more than half that neriod in the sister colony of Van Diemen's Land—they believe they can with confidence state no house in the colony is better qualified to conduct a business of this nature with satisfaction to their customers and credit to themselves; and, with ample capital and other resources at controul, they have secured facilities for laying in their stocks which enables them to sell at prices returning only a moderate interest on their outlay, and which must encourage the continued support of those who may once favour them with orders.

The proprietors do not consider it necessary they should enter into any detail of what their stock consists. It will be sufficient to say that the contents of the shelves and stores of the AUSIRALIAN TEA MART will comprise every article necessary for the carrying on of an extensive wholesale and retail general provision business in a style that will secure for their customers at which mone but articles of madousbed quality-would be sold.

Casherly pass books kept for the supplies of private families.

Strict attention given, and faithful execution of every order, whether small or large.

Civility, promptitude, and integrity will be undeviating rules in the conduction of the business,

HANKS AND LLOYD.

"The Biliptic Rotatory Engine is one of the most successful examples of the modern attempts to apply steam power directly to a revolving crank lever, so as to economise steam, lessen the weight, simplify the constructive details, and convey the power directly to its work. Buch an engine is indeed practically equivalent to the causing the steam to lay hold of and actuate the crank or

CAUTION!!! CAUTION!!!

THE Commercial Reporter of the Sydney Morning Herald says that Furniture resilince enormous profits. Don't believe it, and go rushing in despair to the Auction Rooms, with your minds fully made up to pay 100 per cent, more for your goods than they are really worth, but first call at the well-known FURNITURE WARRIGUTSE, CITY THEATRE, MARKET-STREET, and after looking well to the QUALITY, STYLE, VARIETY, and PRICE of our stock, you will not fall to purchase from us what you may require, at great advantage to yourself, and add another voice to the almost UNIVERSAL, CRY

"If you would know the BEST and CHEAP-EST Mart in the Colonies, for Furniture, Bedding, &c, it is the celebrated house of PETER AND WILLIAM DEAN, Cabinet Makers and Upholsterers, 6286

Gibbes, M.C., Collector of Customs.
This land is a portion of the property of the late Robert Campbell, R.q., and abuts on the waters of Port Jackson, in a very beautiful bay, known as Careening Cove. The distance is not five minutes' walk from Dind's public house, along a pleasant rond, and the locale is well worth the inspection of parties on the look-out for a pretty spot to reside upon.

8 ALLOTMENTS, 8 ALLOTMENTS, varying in size from quarter to half an acre, in the township of St.Leonard's, fronting Walkerstreet and Berry-street.

The North Shore lands are so well known that comment is unnecessary. It may be remarked, however, that these are choice selections reserved by the original proprietor for his special use, and in a most favourable position for building purposes.

THE STATION OF "MARQUAN,"
In the New England District, together with about 5000 SHEEP.

By order of J. H. Puleston, Esq.

M. MORT has received instructions to sell by public suction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on WEDNESDAY, 31st August, at 11 o'clock, with about 5000 Sheep.

THE STATION OF MARQUAN, with about 5000 Sheep.

The Station of "Marouan" is situated in the Beardie district, New England, about 42 miles from the township of "Armidale," on the Mail Road to the Darling Downs and Moreton Bay Districts. THE GRAZING CAPABILITIES THE GRAZING CAPADIANTIES are of a high character, being well watered and capable of carrying 10,000 sheep. It is bounded by the well known stations of Measure.
Everett, Wauchope, Boyd, and others.
THE SHEEP

are all fine woolled and perfectly sound, and principally the X Y Z stock, the wool of which is so celebrated.

They are mostly young sheep, and the ewes will lamb in October; a number of the rams were selected this season by the present proprietor from the celebrated stock of William Dangar, Eq., and Captain Ditmas, and a large proportion of the wethers are in excellent condition and fit for market.

THE IMPROVEMENTS, which are unusually extensive, comprise

THE IMPROVEMENTS, which are unusually extensive, comprise A superior dwelling-house
Detached kitchen and other offices
Overseer's cottage, two gardens
A public store, spacious wool-shed
Stables and groom's hut, excellent stockyard
A grass paddock of 300 acres
Two cultivation paddocks
A blackmuth's forge and hut, and Shepherds' huts

A biseksmith's forge and hut, and Shepherds' huts

The dwelling-house is well huilt, with drawing and dining rooms 16 feet by 15 feet, with a good verandah, and is well adapt-d to a family of respectability, being situated in a healthy locality and agreeable neighbourhood. The original cost of the improvements which have been lately effected was upwards of £1700.

THE PUBLIC STORE.

well known as the Ben Lomond Store, is well supplied with goods of every description, and being in a central position on the mail road, with proper management, the profits ought to pay the whole expenses of the station.

THE AGRICULTURAL CAPABILITIES of the station are first rate, and well adapted.

THE AGRICULTURAL CaPABILITIES of the station are first-rate, and well adapted for the growth of wheat and eather grain, and the purchaser, by exercising his pre-emptive right to 160 seres, could realize a large profit annually by the sale of his farm produce. The station is well situated for a steam mill to be erected with advantage.

Mr. Mort begs to direct the attention of parties on the look-out for stations and stock to the desirable investment now offered, and the certainty of realizing a large portion of the purchase-money so soon after taking possession, by the clip of wool. There can be no doubt but that shortly stations like this will be in great demand, as a means of investing money, and the prices of sheep will increase with the influx of capitalism, and the tide of immigration.

PREBIOLD CITY PROPERTY.
Day of Sale, FRIDAY, August 26.

M. R. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY. August 26, the following first-rate and eligible City Properties, either in one lot or divided. They are situated in Windmill and Kent streets.

Lot 1.—A two-storied stone-built House, containing five rooms and attached hitchen, having 35 feet frontage to Windmill-street, with a depth of 40 feet, with back entrance. This House is now and has been for several years occupied by Mr. Wingfield, a retail butcher.

Lot 2 is a large two-storied stone-built House, situated at the corner of Kent and Windmill streets,, having a frontage to the former of 42 feet 10 inches, and to the latter of 45 feet, and contains elseve rooms, including cellarage and kitchen. These extensive premises were formerly known as "the "Cheahire Cheese," and are tenanted by Mr. Hill, a respectable innkeeper.

The above houses command a beautiful view of the Harbour, from which they, on account of their situation, can never be shut out.

Lot 3 is a weather-boarded verandsh Cottage, having a frontage of 40 feet to Kentstreet, by a depth of 80 feet, and containing four rooms, detached kitchen, large shed and yard, in which are smiths' workshops.

2 The above properties, on account of their favourable situation, require no particular recommendation from the Auctioneer. They stand in a thickly populated and increasing neighbourhood, in the immediate vicinity of the wheres of Port-street, and Millers' Point, and therefore enjoy the advantage of the profitable traffic daily increasing in this improving part of the City. The wharf of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company is within a very short distance of the above houses.

CIRCULAR QUAY AND BARRACK SQUARB.

CIRCULAR QUAY AND BARRACK SQUARE
BUILDING ALLOTMENTS.
Day of Sale, TUESDAY, 6th September.

M. R. MORT has received instructions to sell by public suction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on TUE-SDAY, the 6th September, at 11 o'clock,
The following valuable Blocks of Land,
Lot 1.

process land near to Circular Quay, having 30 feet frontage to Phillip-street, by a depth of 92 feet to a lane in the rear, being allotment No. 12 of section 104

Lot 2.

process land adjoining the above, and of pi perches land adjoining the above, and of the same dimensions, being allotment No. 13 of section 104 of section 104

Lot 3.

Spenches of land in Old Barrack-square, being allotment No. 7 of section 4, having a frontage of 22 feet 10 inches to Wynward-square, by a depth of 101 feet 11 inches to a lane in the rear, 20 feet wide.

Mr. Mort begs to direct the particular attraction of the numerous enquiriers after land on the Circular Wharf to the important lots now offered—important because the purchaser of the first lot will have the option of securing both, and such a frontage in the immediate vicinity of the Circular Quay is rarely to be met with. The block in the Old Barrack-square is adapted for a first-class building, cluber as stores or private dwelling-houses, and there can be no doubt but that this spot will be the principal business mart of the metropolis.

COAL FIELD IN OPERATION.
60 ACRES OF LAND.
Day of sale, Tuesday, 4th September.

M. B. MORT has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Rooms, Pitt-street, on TURSDAY, 6th September, at 11 o'clock,
60 acres of Land in the immediate vicinity of Maitland, well known as Brown's Cosl Mines, now in full operation, subject to the following leases—
30 acres, leased for 21 years, from let January, 1852, for the yearly rental of £30.
18 acres and 3 roods, leased for 3 years from 5th April, 1853, for £52 per annum, and 6d.
per ton for every ton of coals raised above 40 tons per week.

11 acres, leased on the 11th Jane, 1853, for 3 years, for £52 per annum, and 6d. per ton for every ton of coals raised above 40 tons per week.

The land in question contains two seams of coal opened as yet, the upper seam being 5 feet 6 inches thick, and the lower one 4 feet 6 inches; the first being a strong, bright, serviceable coal, realizing as high a price as any in the Sydney market. The second seem is 60 reet e inches thick, and the lower one a rect inches; the first being a strong, bright, serviceable coal, realizing as high a price as any in the Sydney market. The second seam is 60 feet below the upper one, and produces the fael so well know as Brown's steam coal, equal to the best Welch, and it has been used for some years by the steam fleet of the Australasian Steam Mavigation Company, as also by the Cleopatra and other steamers in the port, and was formerly used on board the Juno, Captain Kirsopp. These seams extend throughout the 60 acres.

The adjoining block of land is in possession of an English company, having been secured by W. F. De Salis, Eq.

The Hunter River Railway Company, which may be presumed to be in operation when the three years' leases have expired, will increase the value of the mines to a great degree, as the cost of conveyance to Newcastle will be materially leasened. Being in the vicinity of Maitland, the mines have the advantage of a local market as well as the steamers coaling at Morpeth.

Mr. Mort hears to draw the attention of caniat Morpeth.

Mr. Mort begs to draw the attention of capitallate to this important sale, if considered only as a means of investment, as upon the expiration of the shorter leases the return upon any outlay may be calculated as a compound interest, which will exceed the most sanguing expectations of the purchaser.
